00:27:29 Mariana Moore: This Recovery Dollars Tracker was an amazing tool for local advocacy. I strongly recommend folks go see what's being invested (and remaining funds to advocate for) in your county or city, and join forces to push for equitable investments.

00:35:04 Christa Brown: @Mariana was one of the advocates that helped shape the tool. Appreciate your support Mariana (and the advocacy you've done since!)

00:39:09 clias@aofund.org: Do you have a website yet about this campaign?

00:42:50 Giovanna Erkanat: Question - How do local governments factor into this process?

00:45:05 Jessica Peyton / SPUR (she/her): Remember to get your questions into the Q&A function at the bottom of your screen!

00:46:16 Jessica Peyton / SPUR (she/her): When we get to the Q&A portion of the program, we will pull questions from there. Make sure to get them in soon, so we can answer as many as possible!

00:54:11 Romina Gonzalez: can we get links in the chat? Thank you

00:56:09 Jessica Peyton / SPUR (she/her): Get your questions in now! What do you want to ask our panelists today?

00:59:19 Christa Brown: Check out the "Projects" tab to search by issue area

01:00:16 Christa Brown: (On that tab can see the specific descriptions of the projects that were funded by issue area)

01:03:57 Dave Thompson: Yes, thank you for stating that Christa!

01:05:43 Kristania De Leon: RE local government role- local govts are HUGE in successful PB - the process needs to be community-driven but does need to be deeply supported by govts. They are huge in serving as a backbone of this work; they are essential for mobilizing and expanding reach in outreach efforts of idea collection and voting and are key partners in assessing feasibility, legality, and contributing to the expertise that goes into the development of strong proposals - that is where the inside/outside collaboration and relationship building is key!!!

01:10:14 Christa Brown: My email is: christab@sff.org

01:11:55 Kristania De Leon: Links to PB resources - ARPA Overview with case studies: <https://www.democracybeyondelections.org/portfolio/arpa/> Our PB for Orgs toolkit: <https://www.participatorybudgeting.org/pb-for-orgs/> and some more videos: <https://vimeo.com/pbproject> my email address is: kristania@participatorybudgeting.org

01:11:59 Mariana Moore: I would argue that our duty is to, yes, identify projects that can be competitive at the state level, but also to shape and challenge state criteria/processes as needed to ensure that the most impacted communities have the loudest voices in the process.
